

South Africa's Restaurant Plate Rating for 2023

The 2024 JHP Gourmet Guide launch recently took place at beyond Restaurant on the Buitenverwachting wine estate in Constantia, Cape Town where 45 plated restaurants, and the Haute Performance awards for chefs and restaurants were announced.

The digital guide, which won the 'Best in the World' in the digital category at the Gourmand World Cookbook Awards in 2023, showcases the best fine-dining establishments in South Africa. It rewards excellence and consistency in the industry and is highly respected for its authenticity and credibility. Established in 2016, it is the first restaurant rating system in South Africa that equates to global standards of international benchmarking.

Premium restaurants, having grown from last year's 36 to 45 in total, received their Plate Ratings at the ceremony. Minister of Tourism, Patricia de Lille, thanked the restaurants and chefs for their contribution to gastronomic tourism in South Africa, and presented the plates.

Jenny Handley, founder and curator of the guide, reminded the chefs that they are not in the food business, but in the people business. The challenge is to match global standards, and to tap into their diverse kitchens to understand and promote all genres of SA cuisine. She encouraged them to support local, to be more sustainable, to practice genuine upliftment and more transformation.

"The most important meal served in a restaurant is the one with your team before service, when you come together as a family. You begin to understand one another's history and heritage and culture, and only then can you showcase our diverse cuisine," said Handley.

Haute Performance awards

The Haute Purpose & Passion Award, in partnership with Wesgro, the Tourism, Trade and Investment Promotion Agency for Cape Town and the Western Cape, was won by The Test Kitchen Fledgelings.

The criteria included: community impact, involvement, and upliftment, strategy for sustainability and futureproofing, the ability to influence others positively, and to harness the passion of their team.

In this vibrant atmosphere of culinary ambition, students are nurtured by the combined expertise of Luke Dale Roberts, renowned for his innovative approach to gastronomy, and the talented head chef Nathan Clarke. Here, amidst the clatter of pans and the sizzle of gourmet creations, future culinary luminaries are sculpted into polished gems of the industry.

Guided by their mentors, these aspiring chefs and hospitality professionals delve into the intricate art of gastronomy, mastering the delicate balance between creativity and precision.

Their education transcends the confines of a traditional culinary curriculum, encompassing the nuanced interplay between flavours, textures, and presentation that characterizes a truly exceptional dining experience.

First Green Philosophy Plate Awarded

The JHP Gourmet Guide is proud to partner with the WWF Southern African Sustainable Seafood Initiative (SASSI) in awarding the first-ever green philosophy plate. WWF-SASSI drives change in the local seafood industry by working throughout the seafood supply chain to:

- Shift demand away from over-exploited marine species, and
- distil complex science into easy-to-use tools categorizing seafood per a 'traffic light' system, enabling sustainable seafood decisions.

A cornerstone of the SASSI programme is to drive an increase in awareness of sustainable seafood by asking three questions: What are you eating? Where is it from and how was it caught or farmed? This enables full traceability and transparency within the culinary industry.

Fyn was awarded the inaugural Green Philosophy Plate, and this award celebrates chefs Peter Tempelhoff, Ashley Moss and their team who are making remarkable strides in sustainability. WWF-SASSI recognises that sustainability is a journey, and success is not achieved overnight. These chefs have made it their daily ambition to keep sustainability at the heart of everything they do.
