

Mondi Shanduka Newspaper Awards: record entries, "superb" standards

The shortlist for the 10th Mondi Shanduka Newspaper Awards were released this morning, Thursday, 17 March 2011 by the Newspaper Association of South Africa and Mondi Shanduka Newsprint. This followed an intense judging session, convened by Prof Guy Berger of Rhodes University, of 760 entries - a new record - up from 601 last year.

Commented Berger: "It was a happy group of assessors at the end of our two-day judging process. We had worked through a very large sample of South African newspaper journalism, and were able to conclude that the best entries were of superb standard. Over the decade of this competition, it's clear that the best of the country's journalism just keeps getting better."

According to the organisers, this year's contest shows that increasing numbers of South African journalists are taking serious pride in their work. The entries represent 37 newspapers from across all nine provinces and include the community press. News Photography was the most popular category, with a total of 125 entries, while the Feature Photography and Feature Writing categories each attracted 105.

The judging panel included Pippa Green, Jodi Bieber, Joe Latakomo, Tyrone August, David Wightman, Juby Mayet, Liesl Louw, Mathatha Tsedu, Tumi Makgabo, Paula Fray, Peter Sullivan, Mike Siluma, Adrienne Sichel and Arrie Rossouw.
