

NBCUniversal to launch new streaming service next year

According to a report by Daily Maverick, NBCUniversal plans to launch a free streaming service in 2020.

The service will be supported by advertising, though it will also have an ad-free option available for a fee.

NBCUniversal plans to retain rights to certain titles for its new service, suggesting that some movies and shows will no longer be available to its rivals.

Read more on this here.

For more, visit: <https://www.bizcommunity.com>