New work in at SA's very own home-grown fintech and payments hub that is now over a decade. I love this team, they are a bunch of go-getters driving a shift in payments, insights, loyalty, and rewards platforms.

The current need is for a senior developer with key skills in C# .NET stack; as well the curiosity and ability to extend beyond that as the business is dabbling in tech such as Golang and Node.js!

The ideal guy/gal for the job must be highly skilled as a developer with expertise in C#, SQL, and AWS cloud. You will join a team that is technically fearless and evolving all the time, they work autonomously as well as in a team and are aligned to an Agile way of working. They are working on custom apps and systems that lends itself to robust problem solvers and passionate coders. This is your chance to join a network of devs that empower each other and are building a legacy.

This is what you need to land an interview:

- A minimum of eight years' experience coding in C#, .NET framework and .NET Core
- Bachelor's degree in computer science, engineering or a relevant work experience.
- When it comes to cloud to have experience using AWS
- Solid understanding of software development principles, design patterns, and best practices.
- Experience with Golang and Node.js is a plus or at least an interest to work with such tools is required.
- Proficiency in building and maintaining RESTful APIs.
- Strong knowledge of cloud computing concepts and experience with AWS services (e.g., Lambda, Ecs, EC2, S3, RDS, etc.)
- Experience with containerisation technologies (Docker, Kubernetes) is a plus.
- Excellent problem-solving and debugging skills.
- Strong communication and collaboration skills.
- Experience with DevOps practices and tools; CI/CD pipelines
