Eduvos, South Africa's leading private higher education institution, is thrilled to announce the launch of its state-of-the-art Mowbray Campus on Saturday, 11 May between 10am and 1pm at River Park, River Lane, Mowbray. The campus will allow Eduvos to offer quality education to more students and is integral in Eduvos's goal of becoming Africa's leading meta-university by 2027.

This campus represents a significant leap forward for Eduvos as the institution continues to expand and shape the future of education in Africa in the Fourth Industrial Revolution. In the last two years, Eduvos has seen a surge in first-year student enrolment, surpassing many of its public university counterparts. The new campus, located against the scenic backdrop of the Cape Town mountains, will help Eduvos meet the growing demand for higher education in Africa.

The Mowbray campus embodies Eduvos's "campus of the future" model, where cutting-edge technology merges with academic excellence to create a holistic learning environment for Eduvos students.

The Mowbray campus is equipped with cutting-edge technology, IT labs, a Graphic Design studio, lecture rooms, collaborative workspaces, and a social area that will help equip students with the skills needed in the dynamic world of work.

The campus, like the whole of Eduvos, is embracing AI and VR in its learning model as the institution has partnered with EON Reality to bring these new technologies into the classroom.

"As we unveil the Mowbray campus, I am filled with pride and excitement for the opportunities it brings to our students. This expansion not only signifies Eduvos' commitment to growth but also reinforces our mission to provide quality education to students," says Mowbray campus General Manager, Billy de Beer.
