

Stellantis opens new development hub in Poland

Stellantis N.V. is expanding its software development and engineering network to eight hubs with the opening of a new office in Poland. The Poland software hub will employ up to 300 people in data analytics, software development and validation, and will be located in Gliwice, close to a Stellantis manufacturing plant.

Stellantis is collaborating with GlobalLogic Inc., a provider of digital engineering services, to quickly hire people and develop the Poland software centre.
