

Turrito Networks appoints head of operations

Turrito Networks, a converged communications and cloud computing service provider, has appointed ICT veteran John Ferguson as its head of operations. The position was created as a result of exponential growth over the past four and a half years and the company's continued commitment to putting the customer first.

For more, visit: <https://www.bizcommunity.com>