

Uber finally comes to Kenya, African expansion to be tested

It's only been a matter of time before Uber unleashes its East African chapter. The $40-billion worth taxi company is finally about to show face in Kenya's Nairobi.

By Nur Bremmen 20 Jan 2015

Image via Ventureburn

After first touching down in Johannesburg, South Africa and then Lagos, Nigeria, the popular Uber is definitely clear about making inroads into Africa's fast-expanding cities and the whole world for that matter.

Continue reading the full article on www.ventureburn.com

For more, visit: <https://www.bizcommunity.com>