

Kenya ushering in a new era of mobile banking?

The virtual currency Bitcoins, could be the future of mobile money in Kenya, according to a report on Think Africa Press.

For more

- Think Africa Press: Kenya: Are Bitcoins the future of Mobile Money?... The report states that there are indications that Kenya could usher in a new era of mobile banking thanks to a 'digital wallet' service launched by Kipochi.

The service allows citizens to send and receive money domestically and, using the online peer-to-peer currency Bitcoins, transfer it internationally. Even though the use of Bitcoins has great potential in Kenya, it has, unfortunately, not caught on just yet.

For more, visit: <https://www.bizcommunity.com>