

Amazon's less than prime time for SA launch will be significant challenge for e-commerce king

 By Toby Shapshak

19 Oct 2023

South Africans will have to wait a little longer for the holy grail of e-commerce to arrive. Amazon's much-rumoured local launch was finally confirmed - but its launch has been delayed until next year.

Image by Tunisur from Pixabay

“We look forward to launching amazon.co.za in South Africa, providing local sellers, brand owners and entrepreneurs — small and large — the opportunity to grow their business with Amazon, and delivering great value and a convenient shopping experience for customers across South Africa,” says Amazon GM for sub-Saharan Africa Robert Koen.

“The launch of amazon.co.za in 2024 will provide independent sellers throughout the country an opportunity to rapidly launch, grow and scale their businesses while leveraging the innovative capabilities provided by Amazon,” it says.

Amazon launching in SA next year, sellers can register now

17 Oct 2023

Read the full article by Toby Shapshak at Daily Maverick.

ABOUT TOBY SHAPSHAK

Toby Shapshak is publishing editor of Stuff magazine. Email Toby at toby@mavenmedia.co.za or follow him on Twitter at @shapshak.

■ Amazon's less than prime time for SA launch will be significant challenge for e-commerce king - 19 Oct 2023

■ [2012 trends] Reviewing 2012 tech trends - 24 Jan 2012

■ [2011 trends] Year of the tablet - 30 Jan 2011

View my profile and articles...