

Growthpoint named overall winner in Investment Analysts Society awards

Along with being voted leader in communication and financial reporting in the property sector category, Growthpoint was also named the overall winner of the Investment Analysts Society of South Africa (IAS) Excellence in Financial Reporting and Communications Awards 2019.

The IAS represents investment professionals throughout South Africa who play a key role in investor communication and investment decision-making. The society regularly canvasses its opinions on which public companies it believes have excelled in displaying outstanding expertise and transparency in financial disclosure and communications.

Growthpoint has been acknowledged for its disclosure and market intelligence by the IAS every year since 2011. It has also been named overall winner of the awards three times.

Norbert Sasse, group CEO of Growthpoint Properties, comments, “We are thrilled to receive the overall prize for the third time and honoured to accept the property sector award. While this is not the first year we have won both awards, it is one of the most memorable and rewarding as every year the competition gets tougher and the bar gets set higher. Growthpoint has an incredibly talented team who drive the success of our financial reporting and communication, and who can be incredibly proud of their achievements.”
