In Lagos, Global Citizen is working with the Lagos State Government to create a limited-capacity event in celebration of Nigerians working on the frontline in the fight against the Covid-19 pandemic. The show will be filmed in advance with a fully vaccinated audience or attendees who have presented a negative PCR test.

Singer-songwriter and activist Femi Kuti, said: “I am honoured to help bring Global Citizen Live to Lagos, as we lift the voices of Africans everywhere. But what is taking place on the continent right now is a tragedy. There is no reason that 1% of Nigerians have been vaccinated against Covid-19 while countries talk of booster shots. The G7 urgently needs to donate at least 1 billion doses by September. It’s time for our leaders to lead and act now.”

UN IFAD goodwill ambassador and Global Citizen advocate Sabrina Elba said: "I'm thrilled to be a part of Global Citizen Live's fight to defend the planet and defeat poverty. Climate change has wreaked havoc on many smallholder farmers and rural communities, reducing crop yields and creating food insecurity for millions. We're taking decisive action with Global Citizen to avert a hunger crisis and help the world's most disadvantaged communities."

Lagos state governor, Babajide Sanwo-Olu, said: “Lagos State is thrilled to be a part of Global Citizen Live. With the challenges of rising poverty, hunger and vaccine inequity facing Africa, we need businesses and governments around the world to respond to the call of citizens, stand in solidarity with the people of Africa, and commit to defending the planet and defeating poverty and inequality.”

Zainab Shamsuna Ahmed, minister of finance, budget and national planning, said: "Women continue to bear a disproportionate burden of the Covid-19 pandemic - on the frontlines, in various sectors and their homes. Every woman and girl should be guaranteed safety in their respective homes, schools, communities, and places of work. This is a shared responsibility and through Global Citizen Live, we are calling on key stakeholders across private and public sectors to join hands in accelerating our common goal of ensuring that women are safe and economically empowered.”

Dr Herbert Wigwe, group managing director Access Bank PLC, said: “Access Bank strongly aligns with Global Citizen’s goals and objectives, possessing a strong drive to ending Covid-19, addressing the global food crisis, achieving education for all, advancing equity, and protecting the environment. In recognition of our responsibilities as an institution/organisation, we have devoted resources to minimise our carbon footprint while also being at the forefront of stimulating environmentally responsible stewardship, development, and sustainability innovation.”

Pat van Heerden, Head of S3, said: "S3 is very proud of our continued partnership with Global Citizen, through this partnership S3 invites South African millennials to open up to preserving our planet, to contribute toward eradicating poverty and to be activists for a better world. This broadcast enables S3 to showcase programming that makes us think like global citizens and what a lovely way to drive a cause with great musical performers and messages from celebrities across the world."
